Notes: Decent homes are those that meet the fitness standard; are in a reasonable state of repair; have reasonably modern facilities and services and provide a reasonable degree of thermal comfort. From 2006 onwards the Decent Homes Standard was revised with the new Housing Health and Safety Rating System replacing the fitness standard as one of components of the Decent Homes Standard. Data for both definitions is provided for 2006. Vulnerable households are defined as households in receipt of at least one of the principal means-tested or disability-related benefits, including tax credits. Precise definitions vary from year to year, reflecting reforms to the new range of tax credits introduced since 2001. No estimates are included for households that are eligible for, but do not claim, those means-tested benefits or tax credits.
